TEACHING HIM BAD HABITS

Children and Grandchildren of "Father" Gompers Joined in Leading the Old Gentleman Astray.

Here is a very human little story which President Samuel Gompers told a Cleveland man while they were on their way to the city.

The eminent labor leader's father is still living. He is ninety-two years and hale and hearty, with a keen interest in current events. On his ninety-second birthday his children and grandchildren gave him a family dinner and reception. The fine old gentleman sat at the head of the table and smilingly faced the bombardment of good wishes.

At the close of the dinner cigarettes were passed and finally Father Gompers was persuaded to smoke one.

"It's my first offense," he said as he cautiously puffed at the little tube.

A little later the phonograph was started on a two-step, and presently the patriarch was dragged into the dance.

Then quite suddenly one of the Gompers boys rapped loudly on the table.

"This is outrageous!" he cried. "We are supposed to have come here to honor our revered parent, to offer him a heartfelt tribute of filial respect. And what are we doing? Teaching him to smoke cigarettes and dance the cancan!"

And the head of the Gompers tribe laughed louder than all the rest.

ADVICE TO APPLE GROWERS

Study of Market Requirements Would Pay Well, According to Prominent New York Newspaper.

Apples are cheaper as the season approaches its end, but the market is not glutted with greenings, Spitzenbergs or northern spies, the demand for which always exceeds the supply, says the New York Commercial. These three varieties attain their highest perfection in northern New York, New England and Canada. The snow apple is seldom seen, though it is one of the finest early winter apples. It is more subject to scab than the others, but with care it can be produced free from blemish. Another desirable variety is the red astrakhan, a beautiful summer apple. If eastern pomologists would specialize in these varieties, take care of their orchards and pack their fruit properly they would easily have the first call in city markets where the people pay the price for fancy grades. Spitzenbergs and greenings bear more regularly year after year than other varieties. In New York city the Spitzenberg holds first place for table use and the greening for cooking. The time to judge market requirements is in the spring, when anyone can see what apples are scarce and what have been left over. In all lines of business the thing to do is to produce what the people want.

MIGHT REST IN TRENCHES

Furloughed Soldier, Detained in Speaking Tour, Credited With Quasi-Comment.

Jesse E. Eschbach, head of the speakers' bureau in Indiana for the third Liberty loan, has obtained a reputation throughout Indiana of being a "modern slave driver." He has handled many speakers' bureaus.

A new example of his driving propensities came to light when T. R. Spray of Frankfort, Liberty loan chairman for Clinton county, reported to state headquarters that he had carried out instructions given by Mr. Eschbach for the coming of Sergeant Edwards of the Canadian army, who was speaking in Indiana cities in behalf of the Liberty loan.

Mr. Spray told Sergeant Edwards, who was traveling through Indiana with Alexander T. Wiggins, assistant secretary of the interior, that he was to proceed from Frankfort to Logansport by night train, then arise at five o'clock in the morning to go to Mishawaka for a noon meeting there, thence to Ellettsburg for an afternoon meeting the same day, and on to South Bend for a night address in that city.

"Well, I'll do it, but I guess I'll go back to the trenches, when I can rest a little from time to time," replied Sergeant Edwards—Indianaapolis News.

POOR CHAMP

Cholly—Could you swim over to that buoy and back to me?
Marguerite—If there were any other boy here I'd never swim back to you.

AN APPEAL

Mayor Hylan said in a Red Cross appeal in New York:
"Whatever we noncombatants can do for our soldiers seems a trifling and futile beside what these young heroes are doing."

"Yes, the most generously contributing noncombatant, when he is compared with the fighting soldier, is a good deal in the position of the lady visitor at the base hospital."

"And so you've lost a leg?" the lady visitor said to the young patient.

"Yes, ma'am," said he.
"Poor dear!" said the lady visitor. "Have a gumdrop!"

JONES MEETS THE ENEMY

Corporal of the Guard—Remember, without the password you cannot get back in camp.

Rookie Jones—What is it?

Corporal of the Guard—Idiocy.

Rookie Jones—I think I'll stay in camp.

AN IMPRESSION

"Do you know what has been done in Russia?"

"It doesn't seem to me," replied the slow man, "that much of anything has been going on. What business does it is to experience the effects of what goes on in Berlin?"

IN CONFIDENCE

"Do you understand the Russian situation?"

"No," replied Senator Sorghum, "but that doesn't matter. Nobody else understands it sufficiently to prevent my assuming all kinds of superior knowledge, if I choose."

A PROFESSIONAL

First Burglar—Before I became a burglar I was pitcher on a baseball nine.

Second Ditto—Gee! man, I noticed you were pretty good at locating the plate."

OBSERVING THE RULES

Young Waitress—What's the matter with the roast beef?

Elderly Guest—I know it ain't meatless day, but with me it is toothless day.

SAYS OLD IDEA IS WRONG

Present Method of Enriching Soil With Manure Condemned by Writer in Chemical News.

The old idea that the best way to grow fine crops is to enrich the ground with manure receives a terrible jolt from Sampson Morgan in an article in Chemical News. He holds that we are ruining the quality of our wheat by feeding the soil with ancient matter; that the latest experiments show that powdered granite rock and decaying leaves are the only fertilizer that will produce the hard wheat with its high content of gluten.

Mr. Morgan urged that all garbage and animal refuse be reduced to ashes before being spread upon the ground. "The soil has been fouled with the filth of civilization," he says. "The importance of purification by fire has been ignored too long, at least by western nations. The ashes from these fires are of untold value to the cultivator of the soil, and by ceasing to poison the earth by sowing it with foul-smelling 'plant foods,' and by letting in the air and sun and mineralizing it with the sweet refuse of these burnings and with granite dust, we should soon increase the productive powers of the earth a hundredfold."

POOR MAN

Mrs. Henpeck—She's very pretty, but she hardly says a word. I can't understand why so many men propose to her.

Mr. Henpeck—I can.

DICKIE THE DIPLOMAT

They had been married two days. "Dickie, dear, which would you rather lose, me or my money?" said the girl.

"You, dearest."

"Oh, Dickie!"

"But I would. Because, you see, dear, if I lost you I would have the money to offer a large reward to get you back again!"

"You darling boy!"

CALLING THE KETTLE, BLACK

"I despise a hypocrite. Now there's Johnson, for example; he's the biggest hypocrite on earth."

"But you appear to be his best friend."

"Oh, yes; I try to appear friendly toward him. It pays better in the end."

NO DRAWSACK

"It must be awkward for the boys over there who have married French girls not to understand the language."

"I don't know. It must be a good deal of an advantage sometimes for a man not to know what his wife is talking about."

ONE ADVANTAGE

"The movies have many advantages," said the elderly star.

"As to how in particular?"

"They can bill you as a beauty and yet never give the audience a good look at your face."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

DANGEROUS

"The young iceman's young man has such melting eyes, the cook says."

"Then ask the iceman please to change him for one of freezing manners."

AT THE TARGETS

Officer—What did you do before you enlisted?

Private—I played golf a lot.

"I thought so. You're missing a lot of shots."

POOR BOY!

Stell—So, Reggie, you're going to claim exemption? On what grounds?

Reggie—I'm so afraid that the army food won't agree with me.

WHY WORRY about THE SHORT CORN CROP When You Can Get HOMINY FEED [Corn Hearts]

Hominy Feed (commonly called Corn Shorts or Corn Hearts) is the rich starchy portion of the corn that is taken out in making corn meal and corn flour. It is the best feed for the money that you can buy. It is much richer than corn itself, and has three times the feeding value of wheat feeds.

FOR HOGS: Feed with tankage in dry feeders; for small pigs, make a thin slop.

FOR FATTENING STEERS: Use half Hominy Feed and half silage or other roughage.

FOR DAIRY COWS: Use one-third Hominy Feed, one-third Wheat Bran and one-third cottonseed meal, with free access to pasturage or roughage.

FOR HORSES OR MULES: Mix half Hominy Feed with oats or roughage. It is too rich to feed to work stock alone.

CRACKED CORN is worth $3.70; HOMINY FEED is worth $3.00. You can sell your corn, buy Hominy Feed and SAVE 70 cents per hundred pounds, and still have a much better feed. We will pay you 15 cents for sacks of our brand if returned in good condition.

TRY A SACK AND BE CONVINCED. If your dealer does not handle it, write and ask
